WELSH SAYS HE'LL DAZZLE WHITE WITH HIS SPEED, THEN WEAR HIM DOWN TO KNOCKOUT

Can Welsh make the weight, 135 pounds, ringside? Glimpse this picture showing champ tipping beam at 129 1/2 in presence of Denver's official sealer of weights and measures.

the baseball field, "It only takes one." What Welsh is training conscientiously is evident from the fact that only a few days after he pitched camp in Denver he hopped on the scales and in the presence of the official sealer of weights of Denver tipped the beam at 129 1/2 pounds.

Freddie is 31 years of age is facing the most dangerous puncher in his division.

Wherever boxing enthusiasts gather the question advanced is: "Can Welsh go 20 rounds?"

The champion answers "yes." Though the idea which has settled in the minds of many is that the champion is essentially a sprinter, geared only for 10-round no-decision affairs, it's a fact that Welsh' greatest work has been done in mills waged over a route.

Making the weight, 135 pounds, ringside, will be easy for Welsh. What he is seeking is the punch. He knows how to hit, block and all that sort of thing—in fact he is a past-master of the boxing game.

But the development of those muscles which place a fighter in the list of "knock 'em dead" gladiators was a trick overlooked by the Briton in his earlier training days. He was always satisfied to win on points.

Welsh believes he can baffle the Chicagoan so completely in a 20-round battle as to make him a mark for a knockout. Hence his desire to work up strength that will enable him to accomplish his ambition.

BAXTER DEFEATED EIGHTH WARD

Score Was 11-10 After Ten Innings Yesterday Evening.

To Eighth Ward Independents lost a very interesting game to the Baxter ball club Sunday afternoon, 11-10. The game lasted for ten innings and would have lasted longer but the umpire was tired and gave the game to the Baxter boys on a foul ball. The batteries for Baxter were Wilson, Haught and Hall; Eighth Ward, Miller and Layman. The game was featured by the heavy hitting of both teams.

The locals started their effective club work in the third when, with the bases full, Miller tried to win his game with a home run. Ridgeley placed one on the other side of the fence which gave him a home run, but the umpire declared that he was only entitled to two bases. The most exciting feature of the game was seen in the ninth, when Ridgeley, who was playing short for the locals, went to the left field fence and caught a long fly.

The Baxter team were a hard hitting bunch in general although Haught and Hall wielded the timber most effectively.

will show that the voter paid attention to the suffrage proposition. If that be the case there is a possibility of the amendment being carried, so many suffragists maintain.

Capt. C. C. Lewis, Jr., of Charleston, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, made the dramatic pronouncement the other day that the campaign of his party in West Virginia would be made "as relentless as death."

Republican Chairman Joseph Holt Gaines, also of Charleston, said about the same day that the campaign of his party would be fought with nothing exciting. He expressed the belief that Republican doctrines are almost sufficient basis for campaign purposes and that he believes the Republicans will succeed in holding their own in every part of the state.

Satisfactory progress with the real work of the campaign has been reported from all party headquarters. The Democrats are distributing literature from several headquarters, but most of their important political conferences are held in Fairmont, where most of their heavy work is being done. The opposition has only fairly attained a start, but a splendid working organization was quick in organizing when headquarters at Clarkburg, with Secretary Charles G. Coffman in charge for the remainder of this month, were opened.

Chairman Gaines is doing his organizing in the southern part of the state with only casual reference to that in the central and upper and eastern sections.

A meeting of the Republican state committee will be held right after Labor Day in Clarkburg, at which time further plans of campaign operations will be drafted. While the Republicans have plenty of money with which to meet expenses at this time, the amount of working capital at hand is not nearly so great as that of the opposition. The difference will be made up without much delay, judging from reports from all sections. The assessments made on the state candidates will be sufficient for all immediate purposes.

County organizations are particularly active. That is especially true of the Republicans who pride themselves on having elected exceptionally good men to the various county committees—men who are not only willing to work but who have already pitched in to help further the interests of the ticket from top to bottom.

The appointment of an advisory committee of fifteen members will be announced by the Republicans within the next few days. Thomas J. Sherard, of Wellsburg, for three years chairman of the state committee, will probably be designated as chairman. This committee will include the leading party men of the state, each selected because of his knowledge of conditions and willingness to put his shoulder to the wheel.

Chairman Lewis said the other day that he has found conditions satisfactory in every part of the state and that there is a feeling of confidence among the Democrats that is not usually displayed during the few months preceding a national election.

"Wilson and Marshall will carry West Virginia handsomely," declared he after a trip through the central part of the state. "There is Democratic atmosphere in West Virginia."

"Chairman Gaines is equally as confident of Republican success, basing

SPEAKER AGAIN MAN OF HOUR AS BROTHER SHRINERS HONOR HIM.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—Bostonians still have a warm spot in their hearts for Tris Speaker. This feeling was impressed upon the former centerfielder of the world's champion Red Sox when "Spoke" was made the central figure in a special Shriners' Day during the last Boston-Cleveland series which resulted in a clean sweep of four victories for the Hub team.

Speaker is a member of Aleppo Temple and fellow nobles en masse turned out to honor him. Members of the order were grouped in sections directly back of the Boston club's dugout with the Aleppo Temple file, drum and bugle corps in front. The nobles found it too warm to wear the fez, but many went through with it, the coloring forming a picture.

Speaker's appearance upon the field for preliminary practice was the signal for an ovation and many of his friends in the order took occasion to go down to the box rail to shake hands with him. Tris wore his fez and was the target of the cameras as the dignitaries lined up for a souvenir picture.

his assumptions on figures obtainable from the results in the last three elections. He said that for the last six years Republicans in the state have increased on an average of 2,000 a year, and that the full party vote will be cast this fall. He finds, he says, that there is an absolute absence of antagonism from the former Progressives, and he predicts that this element, once so dangerous to Republican success in the state, will vote solidly Republican without the scratch of a ballot in the fall election.

Charles C. Lewis, Jr., of Charleston, and Mrs. C. E. Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Staunton left today for a motor trip to Boston and will probably make a trip to Maine. The Ward car was shipped to Staunton where the party, leaving Charleston by train, will begin the tour. Mr. and Mrs. Ward and Mr. Staunton expect to return by way of Pittsburgh, where they will attend the marriage, on September 14, of Miss Juliet Staunton and Mr. Buckner Clay, of this city. Miss Caroline Staunton, after going to Fairmont for the tennis tournament at the Fairmont Country club, will go on to

A famous scientist was present at a dinner at which one of the guests began to deride philosophy. He went on rudely to express the opinion that the word "philosopher" was but another way of spelling "fool."

"What is your opinion, professor?" he asked, smiling. "Is there such distance between them?"

The professor surveyed his vis-a-vis keenly for a moment, then, with a polite bow, responded: "Sometimes only the width of a table."

RHEUMATISM AND NERVOUSNESS NO LONGER EXIST

Eliza Sleeth Tells Her Drug-gist That Nerv-Worth Drove Them Away.

This well known Adamston, W. Va., resident makes some statements in the following that her fellow-sufferers will certainly take to heart:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism and nervousness for eight or ten years. I could not sleep or eat to amount to very much for at least six years."

"I have doctored with two or three doctors and have taken different kinds of medicine but have failed to get any relief from either."

And since I have taken one bottle of your famous medicine called Nerv-Worth I have not been troubled with either rheumatism or nervousness. Also I can eat and sleep very well. I can heartily recommend this great medicine to all who suffer from the same trouble that I have had."

Yours truly,

ELIZA SLEETH.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

NAP RUCKER, BROOKLYN NATIONALS:

"Jack Coombs, Sherrod Smith, a newspaper man and I were playing a foursome on one of the Pittsburgh golf links the other day and the caddy who had Smith in tow was greatly awed by his illustrious employer. "There's a thick wood to the right of the first tee and Smith, who swings left-handed, just as he pitches, hooked his first ball into the woods. He tried again. Once more he smashed the ball into the woods. In rapid succession he drove eight balls into the tall and uncultured. "The caddy was disgusted. He was no longer proud he was Sherrod Smith's caddy. Finally he could keep silent no longer.

WILBUR GOOD, PHILADELPHIA NATIONALS:

"Professional baseball in the summer and hog raising in the winter form a profitable combination. Until a couple of years ago I was mixing the national pastime with grapefruit and attended to the latter during the off-season on a plantation I own near Brooksville, Fla. "The crops however, didn't come up to my expectations so I switched to hog raising and as soon as the season is over I'm going to beat it back to the sunny south to take care of my hogs. I've got 140 feeding now and expect to double the number before Christmas."

Chester P. Higby Leaves Normal School

Cester P. Higby, who for many years has taught History in the Normal school, will be transferred to the State university at Morgantown where he will act as instructor. This change is one of several made at a meeting of the state board of control held in Charleston Saturday. Morris K. Turner, Ph.D., appointed History teacher to fill the position formerly occupied by Mr. Higby. Before teaching at the Normal school, Mr. Higby handled the history work at the Fairmont High school.

Walter Barnes, of Fairmont, was made assistant to the president of the local school, while Miss Harriet M. Chappell was appointed as instructor of sewing to the Dormitory classes. Ernest Bill was continued as football coach.
